

(Re)emerging peasantries: A diverse economies approach to agrarian reform in the Philippines

Marni Gilbert

Master of Arts in Development Studies

The University of Auckland

DEVNET 2010

Massey University

RESEARCH QUESTIONS

- What are the current agrarian reform policies, practices and processes in the Philippines?
- How is the 'peasant' subject being constructed within these debates?
- How are these constructions recognizing or ignoring agency?
- To what extent can an understanding of the economy as diverse contribute to an understanding of a multiple peasant subject?

FORMS OF PEASANT RESISTANCE

- Agrarian Reform as inevitably controversial
- Struggles as multidimensional
- Strategic choices being made

- Narrative approach to understanding multiple economic subjects

- Dissonance between 'peasant' subjects

DIVERSE ECONOMIES

REFLECTIONS ON RESEARCH

- Recognizing peasants as strategic actors
- Asking who is engaging in diverse economic practices
- Responding to challenges for the performance of everyday forms of resistance and diverse economic practices

